

I HAVE BEEN A PRACTICING PHYSICIAN FOR OVER 33 YEARS.

During those years, I have gained an enormous appreciation and respect for the strength of the gay community:

...For its courage during the worst of times in the early years of the HIV/AIDS epidemic and its commitment to taking care of its own when the world turned its back.

...For its fight to win equal rights.

...For its passionate commitment to making the world a better place for everyone.

I guess that passion had an impact on me and inspired me to continue to provide service to the gay community, and its important subset, the HIV/AIDS community.

I love it when a patient who has stayed reclusive because of HIV facial wasting says “thank you for giving me my life back.”

I love it when a parent calls me and says “thank you for giving me my son back.”
